

“Frank English and Clinton Snider”

11 October – 22 November, 2008

Background:

Frank English and Clinton Snider are Detroit area artists who have made extensive use of landscape to examine issues of social, environmental and personal transformation. Working primarily in South East Michigan, and utilizing a variety of mediums, they have each produced bodies of work that are beautifully realized and approachable, but which defy easy analysis.

In this, their first joint show, and their first noteworthy period of interaction since graduating from CCS, they will present current work alongside selected older works of particular personal significance. Integral to the show is the process of re-engaging with each others work, and the consequent reflection on the individual bodies of work.
